THREE ROBBERS IN WILD MORNING DASH OVER FOUR COUNTIES

TRAVELED 50 MILES IN 45 MINUTES AND STAGED THREE ROBBERIES

DALLAS, April 25.—(AP)—Three robbers in an eight-cylinder sedan, who traveled 50 miles and crossed four counties in 45 minutes, staged a holdup at each end and one in the middle early today.

Dallas police believed the leader was John Bratcher who recently escaped from the Dallas county jail. Descriptions of one of the men fitted Bratcher. Accurate descriptions of the others were lacking.

The robbers stopped the driver of a pie truck at 17-mile hill, between Rhome and Decatur in Wise county on the highway to Wichita Falls, and robbed him of $6, a can of ice cream and the keys to his truck. This was shortly before 4 a. m.

Speeding on, they forced three negroes off the road east of Rhome but obtained nothing.

The trio drove at better than 70 miles an hour down the northwest highway, clipped the corner of Denton county, crossed Tarrant county and half of Dallas county.

Shortly after 4:30 a. m. at the intersection of the northwest highway and Maple Avenue in Dallas, they robbed Earl Marberry of his shoes, hat, car keys and $10.

Marberry's description of the car and leader tallied with those given by the other victims.

TWO CONVICTS WHO ESCAPED RECAUGHT NEAR SUGARLAND

FOUR ABDUCTED GUARD AND MADE BREAK IN STREAM GUNFIRE

HOUSTON, April 25.—(AP)—Two of the four convicts who fled the Imperial prison farm at Sugarland yesterday after slugging two men and kidnaping a guard, were captured near the museum of fine arts here today.

Ralph King, 31, was captured on the lawn of the museum by Captain Buck Flanagan, manager of the farm after Flanagan had fired several shots, and David Cates, 28, was chased up a church steeple where he surrendered.

While Flanagan was chasing King, Cates ran into the St. Paul's Methodist church and climbed the steeple. Cornered there, he gave up.

The other convicts, Coy Adams, 18, and Robert Stewart, 24, were caught last night by prison guards when they sought refuge from bloodhounds in a railway station at Addicks in Harris county.

The quartet yesterday abducted L. H. Hillyer, a guard, and fled from the farm while guards poured a stream of bullets in their direction.

SECRETARY WALLACE URGED TO QUIT BY TEXTILE INDUSTRY

BITTER DENUNCIATIONS OF PROCESSING TAX BY COTTON MANUFACTURERS

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 25.—(AP)—A bitter denunciation of the cotton processing tax, coupled with a demand for the resignation of Secretary Wallace, was heard today at the opening of the American cotton manufacturer's association convention.

W. D. Anderson, president of the organization, composed of southerners, charged in a prepared address that Wallace is "plainly lacking in business judgment, in knowledge of ordinary business faculties and in common sense."

"Mr. Wallace ought to resign his post, take Professor Tugwell (undersecretary of agriculture) with him, and start a farm paper somewhere," Anderson said.

"This would enable him to preach to his heart's content and afford an opportunity for Professor Tugwell to exploit his dreams of applying Russian collectivism to this country."

The Macon, Ga., manufacturer declared the processing tax, levied against the mills and paid to farmers for reducing plantings, has seriously affected the cotton textile industry.

Textile operators from all parts of the south were here for the convention, one of the most momentous sessions in recent years. Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary to President Roosevelt, was expected today, coming south to hear what the cotton mill men say about the processing tax.

ON FOR SOCIAL E POLITICAL FORCE FATHER COUGHLIN

DETROIT, April 25.—(AP)—The National Union for social justice, turned into a political force at a mammoth rally directed by Fr. Charles E. Coughlin last night, faced the Middle West and East today, promising to drive the "plutocrats" out of public office.

Chicago, New York and Philadelphia are under tentative consideration by Father Coughlin and his associates as the next battle grounds in the organization of state units of the National Union.

Flanked by two senators and four representatives from Washington, the Detroit priest pushed his National Union to the front as a definite political weapon last night. The Olympia stadium, filled to near capacity by 15,382 persons s[illegible] vos of applause for [illegible] llow speakers.

Thunderous cheers greeted attacks on profit-makers and international bankers. Every disavowal of standpat partyism likewise was cheered.

HOUSE APPROVES OF CONFERENCE REPORT CENTENNIAL FUNDS

QUICK ACTION BY SENATE ANTICIPATED; LITTLE DEBATE HEARD

AUSTIN, April 25.—(AP)—The Texas house of representatives today adopted, 76 to 63 the conference committee report on a bill to apropriate state funds for a Texas Centennial celebration.

Senate adoption of the report would send the bill to the governor for signature. It was believed likely the senate would approve it with little delay following the house action which came as a surprise to many.

The conference report was presented to the house by Representative George Butler of Bryan. On two previous occasions the house had all but killed the bill.

The vote was preceded by only slight, mild debate. A motion to reject the report was tabled 81 to 55. Another motion to postpone its consideration until Monday was defeated 90 to 42.

The bill would appropriate $1,000,000 for buildings at the main Centennial site at Dallas and an additional $200,000 for equippment; $250,000 for a memorial observance at the Alamo at San Antonio and a like amount for similar purposes at San Jacinto battlefield; $225,000 for equipment for a world war museum sponsored by the American Legion on the University of Texas campus; $500,000 for publicity and advertising and $575,000 for observances and memorials at various places prominent in Texas history.

BARTON BRADLEY, EMPLOYE OF SUN, DIED SUDDENLY

HEART ATTACK WAS FATAL EARLY THURSDAY; FUNERAL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

H. B. Bradley, aged 61 years, printer, employee in the mechanical department of the Corsicana Daily Sun for the past 15 years, died with a heart attack Thursday morning at 4 o'clock at his home, 510 North Commerce street. SOUTHERN SENATORS OPENED FILIBUSTER AGAINST MEASURE

SENATOR CONNALLY OF TEXAS LAUNCHES ATTACK ON ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—(AP)—Southern democrats began a filibuster in the senate today against the Wagner-Costigan bill to make lynching a federal crime.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) launched the southerners' attempt to bury the bill under an avalenche of talk after Senator Wagner (D-NY), co-author with Senator Costigan (D-Colo), had pleaded for its consideration with an assertion that "public opinion will never be satisfied until Judge Lynch is smothered under a heavy blanket of national resentment."

Beginning where his cohorts left off 13 years ago after defeating the Dyer anti-lynching bill by similar tactics, the Texan asserted:

"If we adopt the philosophy of this bill, it will amount eventually to turning over to the federal government the prosecution of all crimes within the states."

Democratic leaders hoped to keep the filibuster going until the bonus bill was ready for consideration, but were informed by parliamentarians the Costigan motion to take up the anti-lynching bill would have to be disposed of either by a vote or a tabling move.

Connally said lynching was "murder whether committed by three or more men or by one man."

"The bill," he added, "raises

DANIELS EXPECTED TO BE ASKED TO TALK ON MEXICO AFFAIRS

AMBASSADOR MAY BE ASKED TO GIVE CHURCH AND STATE TROUBLE THERE

By RICHARD RENDELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—The reaction to church-state troubles in Mexico took a new turn today when Representative Fish (R-N. Y.) predicted the house foreign affairs committee would ask Josephus Daniels, American ambassador to give his views on conditions below the Rio Grande.

Ambassador Daniels is now in this country. Charging religious persecution, several legislators have sought action in congress. Senator Borah (R-Ida.) has introduced a resolution asking that the senate protest and condemn "the campaign of the Mexican government against the profession and practice of religious beliefs by our nationals now domiciled in Mexico" and that a senate committee conduct hearings.

Fish, ranking republican on the foreign affairs committee, said it "expects to invite Ambassador Daniels to appear and give his views on the Mexican situation,

SENATOR LONG BRINGS THIRD PARTY THREAT FURTHER INTO OPEN BY LATEST STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Senator Long (D-La) brought his third party threat further into the open today with a flat assertion that unless one of the major parties nominates a man of the "Borah calibre" they will be "split wide open."

His statement was taken as a new indication that the Louisiana senator will seek to have his say on a nation-wide scale when the lines begin forming for the 1935 battle.

Although he offered his support to Senator Borah (R-Ida) or any one of a number of "liberals" whom he named, he voiced very little hope that any of them would be nominated by either of the old parties.

"I don't think the——scoundrels will do it," was the way Long put it.

And "if they don't do it,' he said, "well have a third party that will split them wide open."

Telling newspapermen last night that he didnt "give a damn about party labels," Long offered Borah as his first choice. Borah, he said, could have his support whether the Idaho republican independent ran "on the republican, democratic, socialist, progressive or any other damn ticket."

"If the others to whom he pledged his support if they were given the nomination were Senators Norris (R-Neb), Nye (R-Ind), Wheeler (D-Mont), Frazier, (R-ND) and Thomas (D-Okla.) He mentioned Senator McCarran (D-Nev) also, but more tentatively.

"I'd include Pat McCarran if he'd stay consistent," he said. "Any of those men would carry out the idea of redistribution of wealth."

The Louisiana Senator, whose most recent assaults on the Roosevelt administration have led to hints that administration men are going to give him the "silent treatment," aimed another blow at Mr. Roosevelt and his predecessor.

"Now we don't want any Roosevelts or Hoovers running again after what we've seen," he said.

He was non-committal on the question whether he himself will head the third party movement if the old parties do not make choices acceptable to him.

NAZI LEADERS TAKE STEPS TO DEFINITELY CRUSH CHURCH PRESS

NEW LAW MAKES ALL PUBLICATIONS SUBJECT TO NAZI DICTATORSHIP

By GUENTHER O. BEUKERT
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP)—Nazi press leaders took steps today to crush once and for all the entire German church press, Catholic as well as protestant, and all Jewish organs still existing on a religious or racial basis.

A new law, signed by Max Amann, president of the reich press chamber and manager of the Nazi party's publishing organization, is designed to monopolize the reich's publications for Nazi ideas and make them legally subject to Nazi dictatorship.

The law provides that "church or professional newspapers as well as papers intended for groups of subscribers with certain interests, henceforth are forbidden."

The Nazi party and its organizations are not subject to the new law.

Under the edict, "personal unions and organizations which represent confessional or professional viewpoints or interests of certain groups cannot be newspaper publishers."

Must Prove Aryanship.

It further is provided that "persons who cannot prove their aryanship since 1800 are banned,"

MACDONALD ACCUSES HITLER DESTROYING CONFIDENCE EUROPE

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER IN STRONG INDICTMENT OF PRESENT GERMANY

By ALBERT W. WILSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in one of the strongest indictments of Hitlerite Germany ever made by a member of the British government, accused that nation today of destroying European confidence in the outlook for continued peace.

The prime minister, in an article written for "News Letter," national labor organ, charged the reich with "besetting the road to peace with terrors."

The article said there are Nazis in high authority who are not even giving lip service to the cause of European stability.

"Germany has acted in such a way as to destroy the feeling of mutual confidence in Europe," MacDonald wrote. "It asks other nations to accept a verbal pledge of Pacific intention which it itself would not accept from its neighbors.

'Other nations cannot be pacified by such assurance and can show ample justification for their refusal."

The prime minister's outspoken arraignment of Reichsuehrer Hitler's policies disclosed a definite change in the official British attitude which heretofore has occupied a middle ground, insisting that maintenance of peace de-

Howard Pierson Tells Of Murdering Supreme Court Justice And Wife

AUSTIN, April 25.—(AP)—Sheriff Lee Allen said today that Howard Pierson had confessed to him that he killed his parents, Associate Justice William A. Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pierson, "to obtain the former's insurance money and for revenge."

The sheriff said the youth did not amplify on the insurance and revenge motives, and admissions were obtained during prolonged questioning after the bodies of the parents were found near Austin.

Sheriff Allen added that he had learned young Pierson told a close friend he was going to kill his father for his insurance, but he declined to name the friend.

Dr. Joe Wooten, friend of the Pierson family, after talking to the youth, said he was suffering from dementia praecox, and an hallucination that his parents had discriminated against him.

AUSTIN, April 25.—(AP)—District Attorney James P. Hart said today he would prosecute young Howard Pierson, confessed slayer of his distinguished father and mother, "as hard as he can."

A few hours previously, the 20-year-old youth, unruffled in spirit, had admitted after prolonged questioning that he fatally shot Associate Justice William A. Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pierson on a lonely road near Austin.

With his wounded arm in a sling, young Pierson told officers he killed his parents for "revenge," officers said, but to newspapermen he stated he had "a reason."

He admitted he shot himself with the same revolver with which he snuffed out the lives of his father and mother and took the former's purse and watch to bear out his story that two highwaymen committed the slayings during a holdup. Under his guidance, officers recovered the gun and other articles he had hidden.

"We tare going to prosecute him just as hard as we can," said District Attorney Hart.. "But first we must see how we stand, talk to the sheriff's officers and other investigators and question witnesses, if any, as to a possible motive."

Admitted Slayings.

The youth admitted the slayings about 3 a. m. in the Travis county court house where was taken after being charged with murder, and gave officers the details on the trip to recover the gun and other articles.

Despite the long hours of questioning, he finally slept soundly about two hours, and on awakening rested quietly on his cot. He complained of being cold, and wrapped a sheet about his shoulders

He received a telegram of condolence from Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Aulick of Oklahoma City and read it without changing expression. He soon called for Dr. Joe Wooten, physician friend of the Pierson family.

Meanwhile, official Austin, including Justice Pierson's colleagues on the supreme court

RAINS REPORTED OVER LARGE AREA IN TEXAS THURSDAY

SHOWERS EXTEND FROM WEST TEXAS TO SAN ANTONIO; DUST STORMS

By The Associated Press

Rains were reported over a large section of Texas Thursday. They extended over North Texas and a large portion of West Texas, and extended south as far as San Antonio.

Amarillo reported "not a drop," however, fell in the Panhandle. Borger reported a severe dust storm, with visibility cut to three blocks.

Another severe dust storm was reported centering in Quanah, and San Angelo had some dust Thursday morning before an inch and a half rain fell.

A strip only a few miles from Burkburnett to Dublin was drenched by a downpour accompanied by hail and an electrical storm last night. The precipitation ranged from half an inch to an inch and a half. There was little hail damage, Wichita Falls reported.

The rain fall did not reach the western edge of Wichita county, which was the limit of the sandstorm centering at Quanah. Decatur was reported as the eastern limit of the downpour.

Olney reported rain totalling two-tenths of an inch. A fall of from one to two inches was general over Coleman county. The southern part, which was the driest, received good rains. A Talpa farmer reported almost a water spout fell between Coleman and Valera. There was some hail damage in the Novice area northwest of Coleman.

There was a steady drizzle at Dallas and Denton. Paris had a

SENATE LEADERS FORECASTING CLASH BETWEEN ANTI-LYNCHING BILL AND CASH BONUS QUESTION

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Senate leaders foresaw today the possibility of a clash between two highly potent issues—the anti-lynching bill and the cash bonus question.

With an open filibuster against the anti-lynching bill ready to start and the bonus issue about to reach the floor from the finance committee, veteran senators said a clash was almost inevitable.

They predicted a motion would be forthcoming to take up the bonus bill, which would automatically sidetrack the anti-lynching measure. Chairman Harrison, of the finance committee, who will handle the bonus measure, is one of the southern democrats determined that the senate shall not act on the lynching proposal.

This issue would confront many senators with a ticklish decision. If they voted to take up the bonus bill, they would run the risk of antagonizing those voters who eagerly desire the anti-lynch bill. If they voted to keep the latter measure before the senate, they might incur the wrath of those who are seeking quick action on the bonus. In general, only southern senators wouldw elcome the choice.

The finance committee was called into executive session today to vote on the bonus issue, with

A number of examples of soil erosion projects in various stages and rural rehabilitation projects

TY GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS AND BUREAUS WILL AID

ALL - IMPORTANT 'ALLOTMENT BOARD' EXPECTED BE NAMED THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Building his $4,000,000,000 spending machine, President Roosevelt today listed sixty federal agencies that will devise projects intended to put 3,500,000 men to work in the coming year.

Frank C. Walker arrived from New York meanwhile to set up the "clearing house" for project applications.

Tomorrow the President evidently plans to name the all-important "allotment board" to recommend how the immense fund can best be used. He personally is expected to head the board, with Harry Hopkins—FERA director—an important member.

Three new agencies were announced by the President to supplement the job-making task of the sixty already at work, one to be headed by Rexford R. Tugwell for "rural re-settlement", another for rural electrification and another for elimination of grade crossings.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled in press conference that more than $1,000,000,000 in applications already had been examined by the PWA. Many of these and the expansion of the civilian conservation corps are ready to be started.

Officials explained that project "inventories' recently completed by PWA and the relief administration were not formal applications, and that detailed information must be submitted to Walker. He would say nothing of his plans pending a conference at the White House.

Rural Resettlement.

The "rural re-settlement" program calls for expansion and intensification of rural rehabilitation work carried on for the past year by the AAA and FERA.

It will include moving farm families from sub-marginal land, loans and other assistance in establishing them in new areas, creation of new communities depending jointly on farm work semi-industrial employment and extension of work-centers in such communities.

Officials said they hope to put the major portion of the farm families now on relief rolls back on a self-sustaining basis through expansion of this program.

Tugwell Will Hold Old Job.

Tugwell will retain his post as under-secretary of agriculture and will be solely responsible for this new unit.

The president has not decided whom he will place in charge of rural electrification.

Outlining some of his plans at his regular press conference, Mr. Roosevelt showed a list of more than 200 classifications of work contemplated under the job making undertaking. The projects fell into eight general classes as follows:

1. Highways, including grade crossing elimination.
2. Assistance to clerical and professional workers.
3. Loans or grants to political subdivisions.
4. Rural rehabilitation ad relief in stricken agriculture areas.
5. Rural electrification.
6. Housing, including low cost construction in urban and rural areas, reconditioning and remodeling.
7. Civilian conservation corps.
8. Sanitation, soil erosion prevention and reforestation.

Allocated to Many Agencies.

These tasks were allocated to more than 60 existing government agencies, involving eight of the ten regular government departments—treasury, war, justice, navy, interior, agriculture, commerce, and labor.

In addition a number of independent agencies were called on to participate in the program, including the federal power commission, the veterans administration, the Tennessee Valley authority and emergency relief administration.

The latter agency, headed by Harry L. Hopkins, will continue to function only as is necessary to provide direct relief where a work program is not fully underway.

The President indicated, however, that Hopkins would be a member of the all-important general allotment board of the work program.

It will be necessray to add a number of employes to the regular government rolls to aid in administration of the program but the President emphasized pay jobs on the regular federal payrolls would not be permanent and would end when the undertaking is completed.

Duties of Ickes.

Secretary Ickes, who administered the recent $3,300,000,000 public works program will continue as supervisor of strictly public works undertakings in the new set-up.

The President said he was seriously considering the advisability of straight 100 per cent loans to political subdivisions rather than grants and loans under the program. This plan would reduce the interest rates and extend the time for repayment.

The rural re-settlement program involves, first, individual families which find is impossible to make a living and desire to be moved to other settlements. Secondly, there is a problem of transferring a group of people who want to go out to new lands such as the group in the northwest soon moving to Alaska. Thirdly, there is a question of stranded communities involving wholesale removal to places of better opportunity and finally the problem of transferring slum inhabitants to rural communities outside the city.

New York Lawyer Application Head

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Frank C. Walker, New York lawyer, took charge today of a clearing [illegible] through which plans for spending the $4,000,000,000 work [illegible]und began to flow.

Walk[illegible] close friend of President Roosevelt for years, was drafted yesterday by the President. He replaced Donald R. Richberg as executive director of the National Emergency council and immediately set up a special division in that organisation to receive all work relief applications.

The new "division of applications and information" was charged by the President with taking the plans of federal officials, state and local agencies and preparing them for uick action by a works allotment board to be headed by Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Announcement of details regarding the allotment board, which will be the second cog fitted into the administration's machinery for using the huge work relief fund, was promised within a few days.

A statement issued by the white house yesterday said that Walker was called back to the directorship of the emergency council, which he previously held, in order that Richberg may devote his entire time to the NRA while congress is debating whether or not to continue that agency.

Richberg who recently was named chairman of the board in charge of the recovery administration, explained he planned to "go into hiding" for ten days to prepare for a test of NRA's constitutionality before the supreme court. With Stanley Reed, solicitor general, he has been chosen to present the government's side of the case in arguments before the court.

The emergency council division set up under Walker to start the work relief ball rolling was described in a white house announcement as a clearing house for "all suggested plnas for the useful expenditure of work relief funds." It was decided upon, the statement said, to provide for "the general convenience" of federal, state and local officials and civic organizations.

BUILDING OF NAVY TO TREATY STRENGTH WOULD BE DISTURBING

HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE SO STATES IN CUTTING TERMS

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—An admonition that the cost of building an American navy up to treaty strength "must be disturbing to us and equally disquieting to other powers" was sounded today by the house appropriations committee in laying before that chamber one of the largest peacetime naval appropriation bills in history.

The committe chose this language to explain its action in reducing by almost $15,000,000 budget estimates of requirements for the beginning of new ship construction.

At the same time it called attention to demands for even more rigid limitation of naval armaments than is provided in the Washington treaty—which expires in 1936—by asserting:

"It would seem that continued limitation and some contraction of tonnages now permitted must be the wish of all educated, unselfish people the world over."

The total of $459,523,761 provided by the measure for the naval establishment in the 1936 fiscal year was $172,980,629 larger than the $286,543,132 appropriations for 1935, although $27,657,586 under budget figures.

Want Twenty-four New Ships.

The administration asked for $29,380,000 to start laying down 24 new ships for replacing present vessels and looking to a treaty navy of under age ships by 1942. The committee halved this amount but reported to the house that "if, for reasons deemed to outweight those here advanced, the administration should elect not to defer the construction of such ships, there is nothing in the bill to hinder that course."

It pointed out, however, that a supplemental appropriation probably would be necessary early in the next session in this event.

"However we may be determined to live up to the letter and spirit of that tenet of the United States naval policy which reads: 'To create, maintain, and operate a navy second to none and in conformity with treaty provisions' the fact remains that the present and ultimate cost must be disturbing to us and must be equally disquieting to other treaty navy' powers," the committee cautioned.

"It would seem that continued limitation and some contraction of tonnages now permitted must be the wish of all educated, unselfish people the world over."

Another Conference.

"Another (naval) conference will be held during the present calendar year. The committee's proposal to halve the estimate for additional new construction is offered with the thought that the administration might wish to defer the commencement of such construction until that conference shall have been concluded. Such a course should be interpreted as an expression of our faith and confidence that the principle of limitation will survive and that out of such conference a new and better accord will be born."

The administration program has called for starting in 1936 one aircraft carrier, two light cruisers, three destroyers over 1,500 tons, 12 destroyers under 1,500 tons and six submarines. A bitter committee fight was understod to have centered around the new construction plan.

Aviation Budget Trimmed.

The committee explained it also trimmed budget estimates for naval aviation from $52,000,000 to $43,500,000, but said the actual reduction amuonted only to $3,765,400 because of a transfer of the naval reserve apropriation incident to the aviation cadet program and the substitution with the approval of the bureau of aeronautics of a contract authorization for new planes.

Although it did not specify the number of new aeroplanes to be built in 1936, the committee said it was expected to have 160 more in operation during 1936 than the present 1,193.

An 11,000 increase of navy enlisted strength as contained in budget estimates was provided in the bill. This would bring the complement on larger ships from 80 to 85 per cent, provide crews for more ships and increase aviation personnel. Present appropriations look to a naval enlisted force of 82,500 at the end of the 1935 year.

BIG CREW WORKMEN BUSILY ENGAGED IN SALVAGING STOCKS

Salvaging of the fire damaged stocks of the City Book Store and Estes Grovery got under way early Tuesday morning with a large crew of workmen removing as much of the merchandise as possible from the damaged McKie building.

The contents of the Estes store were being moved to the quarters formerly occupied by the West-Marks Company in the 100 block on West Collin street for final inventory under the supervision of a salvage company representative from Dallas.

Merchandise from the book store salvagable was being placed in the building immediately east of the Salvation Army Citadel.

D. N. Rice was unable to announce his new office location early Tuesday but expected to complete arrangements during the day.

Location of the new offices of F. B. (Pat) McKie were indefinitely delayed when Mr. McKie was taken to the Navarro Clinic Monday night where he was operated for appendicitis. He was reported resting well Tuesday.

Members of the fire department were called to the scene of the Sunday morning fire twice Tuesday morning to wet down some of the debris that had been smoldering for hours and again started blazing. The first call came about 2 a. m. and the second about 6 o'clock.

As an added safety measure to the workmen and to the general public both of the ouside walls of the building were braced Monday afternoon to prevent buckling and possible collapse.

Correction.

D. N. Rice, insurance broker, with offices in the McKie Building destroyed by fire Sunday morning suffered a loss of $200 with $150 insurance. The Sun carried the loss estimated at $1250 which was an error.

TWO BANK ROBBERS CAPTURED AT TYLER AFTER JAIL BREAK

PRISONERS HAD TUNNELLED OUT OF CENTERVILLE JAIL EARLY IN DAY

TYLER, April 24.—(AP)—Two convicted bank robbers who broke jail at Centerville, Texas, early today, were captured five miles east of here shortly before noon after a pitched gun fight during which one of the fugitives was shot in the head.

Mona Bell, who with Arthur Whitten tunneled out of the Centerville jail, was shot in the head and shoulder by a shower of shotgun fire from three officers. His condition was not believed to be serious.

Whitten, asleep on the ground when officers arrived at the spot where the fugitives had concealed their stolen automobile, did not resist capture.

Bell, who with Whitten was recently assessed 50 years in the state prison for the January robbery of the Buffalo, Texas, bank, opened fire on the officers from the parked automobile.

Sheriff Tom Fikes and State Highway Patrolmen John Gregory and Marvin Dorbon, returned the fire. None of the officers were hurt.

The officers, who had planned to remove the pair from the Centerville to the Tyler jail today, spotted the men as they hid in a wooded section off the highway.

Whitten lay asleep on the ground and Bell was resting in the automobile. The officers shouted a demand to surrender but Bell fired.

They were brought to the county jail here and Bell was treated for his wounds.

The pair used a stick to tunnel out of the Centerville jail, Sheriff Lee Thomason said. Both had loaded shotguns when captured and were traveling in a stolen car. They were convicted at Centerville Monday in the $7,000 robbery of the Citizens State Bank of Buffalo after pleading guilty.

CENTERVILLE, April 24.—(AP)—Two convicted bank robbers, Mona Bell and Arthur Whitten, under long terms for the $7,000 robbery of the Citizens State Bank at Buffalo, Texas, in January, dug through a brick wall of the county jail today and escaped.

Sheriff Lee Johnson said the two desperadoes, using a small piece of wood, dug their way through the wall and fled during the early morning hours. Sheriff Johnson was unable to explain where the pair had obtained the stick.

No trace had been found of the pair at daybreak. It was not known whether they fled afoot or in an automobile.

Bell and Whitten had been convicted Monday for the Buffalo robbery and were assessed prison terms of 50 years each. They pleaded guilty to the charge.

Both were under other charges and prison terms.

A gang of four men robbed the Buffalo bank on January 16 of close to $7,000.

Two of the robbers held bank officials and customers captive for an hour and a half while waiting for the time lock to allow opening of the vault. The others quietly awaited outside in a "getaway" car.

The robbers had obtained automobiles for the bank robbery in a Tyler kidnaping the night before.

Bell was captured in New Mexico and assessed a 10-year sentence at Canton, Texas, for automobile theft.

Funeral Services For Floydada Man Found Shot Death

FLOYDADA, April 25.—(AP)—Funeral services will be conducted here today for E. J. Hoffman, 48, a farmer found dead in bed in the house in which he lived alone eight miles northeast of Floydada.

A bullet had been fired into the farmer's right temple and a small calibre pistol was near his right hand. In a note to his son, he asked to be buried beside his wife here.

Peace Justice B. P. Woody ruled the death was one of self-destruction.

Physician Chosen By Parents Says Quintuplets Okeh

CALLANDER, Ont., April 24.—(AP)—Dr. G. W. Smith, North Bay physician chosen by the parents, examined the Dionne quintuplets today and announced they were satisfactorily recovering from head colds.

He was in consultation with Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe, physician to the babes, and in his statement, commended the splendid care given to the infants.

Dr. DaFoe invited Dr. Smith personally to make the examination after Oliva Dionne, father of the quintuplets, said he was not satisfied with the inspection made early yesterday by Dr. Alan Brown, famous pediatrician of Toronto.

HOUSE WOULD OUTLAW MARBLE MACHINES; DECLARED ONE OF WORST FORMS GAMBLING MANIA

AUSTIN, April 23.—(AP)—The senate today received from the house a bill to outlaw marble machines.

It original intent was to place a higher tax on them, but the house amended it to provide that the devices would be illegal if winning players received either money or merchandise.

Sponsors of the original revenue-raising proposal hoped the senate would eliminate the outlawing provision, then pass it. They expressed the opinion it would bring in more than a half million dollars annually, with each nickel coin-operated machine to be taxed $10 a year.

Representative G. C. Morris of Greenville offered the amendment to outlaw all machines except those for amusement only. He charged that marble machines constituted one of the worst forms of gambling.

Representative Roy Hofheinz of Houston, who said he sometimes played the machines and enjoyed it, pleaded in vain against the amendment. He said he could see no great harm in putting a few nickels into the machines and that he had heard few complaints against their operation.

A motion to table the amendment lost, 61 to 70.

The special order of business in the senate was a bill to halt the daily wastage of more than a billion cubic feet of natural gas in the Panhandle. The state affairs committee had recommended a substitute for the house bill. After the senate passes the substitute the house may accept it and send it to the governor or may call for a conference committee to adjust differences between the bills.

As a new conference committee on the suggested $3,000,000 appropriation for the Texas Centennial prepared to begin its deliberations, advocates of the appropriation still were hopeful a bill could be drafted which would meet the approval of the house.

House conferees were under instructions that 10 per cent of the gross revenue of concessions be returned to the state and a 10 per cent state tax be levied on admissions. Spokesmen for the Centennial opposed both instructions but they feared the first one would constitute the greater handicap.

COTTON PROCESSING TAX APPEARED TO BE HEADED HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—The cotton processing tax appeared headed today for a supreme court test as the congressional controversy over the levy showed increasing signs of developing into a sectional issue between the New England textile bloc and Southern agricultural representatives.

Massachusetts Republicans assailed yesterday on the floor of the house by Representative Warren (D-N. C.) for their attack on the levy were expected to seek recognition today to make their replies. Warren said the fight was a drive against the agricultural adjustment administration.

Promise that the constitutionality of the tax and of the AAA soon would be put to the supreme court came from Boston as arguments were heard by the U. S. circuit court of appeals there in an appeal on behalf of the receivers of the Hoosac Mills Corporation from a federal court decision that they must pay $81,000 in processing and floor taxes.

Counsel for the government and he mill declared after completing their arguments that constitutionality will be decided by the supreme court. The Hoosac case was the first test case on the processing tax to reach the circuit court.

Edward R. Hale, counsel for the receiver of the mills operated in New Bedford, Taunton and North Adams, assailed constitutionality of the AAA and the tax on the argument that congress had exceeded its power; that the tax provisions do not comply with constitutional requirements, and that the tax provisions constitute a delegation of legislative authority to the executive department.

Government counsel, in upholding the act as valid, contended it was justified by "the economic crisis of 1932."

Meanwhile, New England textile interests prepared for hearings before a sub-committee of the cabinet committee appointed by President Roosevelt to study the entire textile situation, including the processing tax, Japanese competition and North-South wage differentials.

Investigation Proposed.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—A joint congressional investigation of the effect of the cotton processing tax was proposed in a resolution presented on the house floor today by Representative Fulmer of South Carolina.

GRANT TEMPORARY INJUNCTION RESULT RECENT LIQUOR RAID

A temporary injunction was granted Wednesday afternoon by J. S. Callicutt, judge of the Thirteenth judicial district court, restraining and enjoining the defendants in the case styled the State of Texas vs. L. C. McCrary et al, from harassing, intimidating, annoying and interfering with Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse in the discharge of his duties and seeking and threatening by a suit to deprive him of the possession of whiskey seized in a raid several weeks ago.

The suit was brought by C. L. Knox, assistant criminal district attorney, for John R. Curington, criminal district attorney, and Rufus Pevehouse, sheriff of Navarro county, against L. C. McCrary, C. L. Bragg, E. V. May, W. B. Grantham, constable of Precinct No. 1, Navarro countq and Lonnie L. Powell, county clerk of Navarro county.

Whiskey Seized.

The petition points out that a quantity of whiskey, approximately 64 gallons of liquors, and a Studebaker truck was seized in a raid conducted by Deputy Sheriff J. M. Westbrook in East Corsicana recently and that the truck and whiskey was being held as evidence for the trial of L. C. Mc Crary on an indictment for the alleged violation of the prohibition laws.

E. V. May has filed a suit in the county court seeking to sequestrate the whiskey from the possession of Sheriff Pevehouse and L. L. Powell, county clerk, the petition pointed out, had issued a writ of sequestration for the possession of the liquors and the writ had been delivered to Constable Grantham, who had made demand for the possession of the liquors which would take the liquors out of the jurisdiction of the district court.

Would Destroy Liquor.

The petition asked that on final hearing that the whiskey and truck be declared a public nuisance—that the whiskey be destroyed and that the truck be sold as provided by law.

The search warrant on which the raid was conducted was issued out of the court of M. Bryant, justice of the peace, Precinct 1, Place 1.

Included in the liuors seized in the raid by Deputy Sheriff Westbrook and other officers were 310 3-4 pints and 86 quarts, slightly in excess of 64 gallons.

HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN CHARGED WITH MURDERING SPOUSE

S. P. DARDEN HAD STATED THAT SLEEP-WALKING CHILD HAD SHOT MOTHER

GREENVILLE, April 24.—(AP)—S. P. Darden was held in jail here under a murder charge today, awaiting a call to tell the grand jury of the shooting of his pretty young wife whom he had reported was shot by their 8-year-old so[illegible] Jackie while the boy walked in [illegible] sleep.

"I never expected anything [illegible] that," he protested tearf[illegible] being informed of th[illegible] which he was held. "[illegible] inquest to be held, but [illegible] this. Can't I make [illegible]

District Attorney Henry [illegible] told him no bond could be [illegible]ed until the grand jury inquir[illegible] completed, which might not [illegible] til tomorrow.

Darden was arrested just [illegible] he had attended his wife's fu[illegible] at Clinton cemetery, [illegible] west of Caddo Mills. He burst into tears upon being brought to jail and asked if he had any statement to make.

"It's the first time I ever was in jail in my life," the 33-year-old man said. "What am I charged with? They (the arresting officers) told me they wanted to bring me to Greenville for examination."

After his tearful outbreak, Darden told the prosecutor he would be ready to go before the grand jury.

Jackie also attended his mother's funeral, but apparently had no understanding of what was going on.

The father told officers he was awakened early Monday by the sound of a shot and saw Jackie standing over the bed on which his mother lay, a smoking shotgun in his hands and still asleep.

Jackie said he "can't remember what happened."

The district attorney said it was physically impossible for the child to have fired the death weapon. He said Darden recently had obtained a joint insurance policy on himself and his wife, containing a clause for extra indemnity in case of accidental death. The amount of the policy was not disclosed. He said the man also had recently taken out a new burial insurance policy.

LYON-GRAY BID IS LOW FOR BUILDING CORSICANA CCC CAMP

Low bid on the building materials for the housing facilities for the Navarro county Civilian Conservation Corps Company was submitted by the Lyon-Gray Lumber company and they will receive the contract according to information received by F. W. Smith, local manager, Wednesday. Work is expected to start about May 1.

Mr. Smith said that his company had been informed that their bid was low for the materials and that formal contract would be awarded shortly. The bids covered some 150,000 feet of lumber and other builders supplies and will be used in the construction of semi-permanent quarters for the CCC company to be located on the shores of Lake Halbert.

Delivery of the materials is expected to start shortly and actual work will start in the neighborhood of May 1 under the supervision of army officials.

Local labor will be used in the construction of the camp and conservative estimates indicate that some 40 or more carpenters and helpers will be needed for some six weeks to complete the project.

skills. Further pursuing this idea, the speaker declared that education means more than being able to read, write and cipher. It means more than knowing some history and geography and being informed about what is going on in current events. It means being able to gather all available evidence—being able to weigh it carefully, and without emotion, and to arrive at a conclusion and course of action. It means that when a decision has been reached it is retained and put into use.

Leads Toward Goal.

Her second characteristic of good method is that it leads with certainty and dispatch toward a goal, and continuity provides for economy and efficiency.

In closing, Miss Bonner declared that the third characteristic keeps the aims and objectives clearly and definitely before the people as a merchant keeps his featured wares before his customers.

Miss Pannill next introduced [illegible] P. Douglas, principal of the high school, whose subject was "Evaluation and Adaptation of Course of Study."

Four Important Stages.

Mr. Douglas, after telling an applicable joke, said there are four important stages in evaluating a course of study. The first he said, is the appraisal of the separate units of content. In checking the individual units of content, one must be sure that the aims, content and methods and outcomes are sound, he said.

The important factors to be considered, according to Mr. Douglas, are:

That the units of content must be tried and definitely organized for teaching purposes; that the school, the teacher and the pupils must be carefully selected; that the results should be measured by methods which are accurate for the particular content, and that a detailed report of the results should be given to the production committee.

Try Out Course.

Mr. Douglas said the next stage is the "try out" of the course of study in preliminary form. Some of the difficulties that were found in the individual unit try-out may be overcome in this tryout, and other difficulties may be noted, he said.

Steps involved in the try-out of the course of study as a whole include the selection of the school, teachers and pupils; detailed study of the course of study by teachers and supervisors; breaking up of units into teaching plans; supervision and guidance of instruction; report blanks to be used at stated intervals, construction of tests for measuring pupils' progress; the evaluating and interpretation of results and a detailed report of results to the production committee.

Mr. Douglas said the third stage in checking a course of study is the installation period, which should extend over a period of one to two years. This, he said, is the first opportunity of a thorough evaluation of a course of study.

Preparatory and Trial Period.

This period, he said, may be divided into two parts, the preparatory and trial period. The steps involved in the trial period are the classroom visitation by supervisors, teachers and principals; general meeting of teachers to plan the work and discuss problems, answer questions and check results; preparation and giving of tests and reporting results; analysis of results to discover defects such as wrong grade placement, poorly selected content and improper methods; comparison of results with results of previous years under old courses of study.

The fourth stage, Mr. Douglas said, after a course of study has been installed, should be a check up every 5 or 6 years. In judging courses of study there are two lines of approach, he contended. The first is to accept the criteria used by the committee in making the course of study, and the second is to develop a set of criteria entirely different from that used by the production committee.

Rating Score Sheet.

At this point Mr. Douglas outlined a definite score sheet for rating courses of study on a 120-point basis. Among the points were general aims, aim of subject, selection of content; organization of content; selection of method; organization of method; selection of outcomes; organization of outcomes; measurements; mechanical features and miscellaneous.

"Another problem in adapting the course of study is providing for the transfer of students from the rural to the city schools. Probably the best thing is not to try to adapt a course of study to meet this need, but to reorganize the school system," Mr. Douglas said. "The state should be held responsible for financing our public education program instead of the local community, and this should be organized on a county basis. In this way we could have consolidated districts which would have access to accredited elementary, junior high and senior high schools. Moreover, we should have technical high schools in the county which would help provide for individual differences" Mr. Douglas said in closing.

Mr. Douglas introduced Miss Aileen Carraway, principal of the David Crockett school.

Adaptation to Local Needs.

Miss Carraway's subject was "Adaptation of Course of Study to Local Needs," and was drawn from her experiences in the Crockett school with many children who, upon entering the first grade, do not speak a word of English.

"I know each individual child, the home he comes from, for I visit the home and talk to his mother—sometimes with a child interpreter, when necessary, and get acquainted with the little brothers and sisters," Miss Carraway said in opening.

[illegible] is an individual and [illegible]ed to develop the [illegible] him. He must be [illegible] must be guided. I [illegible]u could realize the [illegible] takes place slowly [illegible] these little Mexica[illegible] would become interested in [illegible] just as I have," she continued.

Understands Little English.

Miss Carraway said most of the children understand little English when they enter school, but can not or will not speak it for several months, except to repeat a sentence or rhyme, line by line after the teacher or with a group. She pointed out that each year where there are only 6 or 8 Mexican children entering the school in a group of 25, little can be done. "It is our duty to teach them how to live properly and how to associate with other children," Miss Carraway went on.

She said that many times it is best for the children's development to be left alone, and allowed to sit in the room for the first term, during which they learn enough English and form schoolroom habits that enable them to hold their own with the group next term. Miss Carraway said, however, that she did not believe this course of action could become general.

Like to Sing.

They like to sing, and by singing they are learning English and at the same time doing something they enjoy, Miss Carraway went on.

"I find that games are one of the greatest helps in developing the ability to speak English and in bringing about the Americanization of these little children," the speaker went on.

Miss Carraway declared that much time is given to settling property rights and discipline problems which helps the Mexican children to adjust themselves to a new environment and socializing themselves. They also like to take part on programs, Miss Carraway showed with an interesting illustration. They are given this opportunity on the PTA and school programs.

"In the first grade, I find that the most important work in health education is to build up cleanliness habits. Mrs. McAdams has been a great help in the health education work," the speaker said.

Provided Toys.

"I have provided blocks, dolls, balls and toys for them to play with—on the library table we have simple picture books and story books with many pictures. These children do not know how to handle books nor even how to turn pages when they first come to school," the Crockett principal went on.

Miss Carraway said wherever it is possible she uses pictures in explaining words to the pupils.

"A much better plan would be to have these children in a separate group and spend six or eight weeks in the building up of a vocabulary. In making a new curriculum these non-English speaking American children should be thought of and provided for in some way so that they need not fail time after time until they become discouraged.

Suggests Solution.

I would suggest that 1 1-2 years in the first grade might be one solution, or at least a step in the right direction. The greatest opportunity in our district lies in arousing these people to a greater interest in the community and its problems to such an extent that they will help plan for a supervised playground of recreation center. Our people must feel that it is their project, but if our children are to have the same opportunity as the child from the more privileged community then the city or the state or community on higher economic level must help some. Both of these needs," Miss Carraway concluded, 'are such great needs that they should not be left to individual initiative, but should be set as a program and this program intergrated with the educational policy of the school system."

George Mecham, principal of the Sam Houston school had charge of a "panel discussion," the theme of which was creative teaching. He was introduced by Miss Pannill and in opening his remarks declared that creative teaching is as old as mankind. He asked a number of questions pertaining to it, and said he proposed to have those questions answered by several speakers. He contrasted creative teaching with the standardized methods.

Miss Hannah Brooks was the first panel speaker.

Some Evils Shown.

She showed a number of evils of the standarized and disciplinary methods, but said no one method is a panacea for all defects. She said creative teaching is not an entirely new idea, but uses the fundamental principle—the constant activity of children. Miss Brooks said it is the concern of the teacher to see that the pupil's clasrooom experiences are rich and varied, and that he is encouraged to have ideas and plans of his own, and that he is a working member of a group, sharing responsibility for the success of the group's undertaking.

Miss Mildred Alexander was next called upon by Mr. Mecham, to show how prescribed teaching differs from creative teaching in conception of the learning process.

Creative Teaching.

Miss Alexander said a child learns best when he can take part in some activity in the schoolroom which he has helped to plan and initiate himself. Creative teaching, she said, makes the learning process very interesting and vital and pleasant for the students. This type of teaching helps the child share his interests, ideas and responsibilities with others, and helps a pupil in finding his abilities and developing them.

In prescribed teaching much emphasis is placed on memorizing and under this type of instruction the child's day in school is very bookish. Set forms of rules are followed and the child is not given freedom of self-expression, his likes and dislikes are not regarded, Miss Alexander concluded.

Mr. Mecham next called upon Miss Hazel Hardage to discuss two conceptions of the ultimate ends of creative teaching.

Train How to Think.

Miss Hardage said schools of the modern dynamic society must train pupils how to think rather than what to think, and the results are to be measured by appreciations, understandings and insights rather than by mere skills.

The keynotes of the traditional school, she went on, are to memorize, recite and pay attention. Experience is the keynote of the new or creative educational methods; its goal being individuality, personality and experience.

Personality, Miss Hardage said, cannot be imposed from without but must evolve from within. Individuality develops through the growth of the power in self-expression, and therefore with all the materials of child experience the creative school strives to develop the capacity for self-expression.

"When we can develop tolerant understanding of self and society in an individual we have certainly elevated that individual to a sphere where he will be fitted for the most complete living." Miss Hardage declared in closing.

Closely Allied With Education.

Miss Sarah Holman was presented by Mr. Mecham, and declared in opening that the conception of curriculum is closely allied to aims and philosophies of education. She said that some form of adjustment must be made between the child and contemporary society, and that the surest means of making it is through education and the school curriculum.

The next portion of Miss Holman's talk showed that schools of the past were schools for literacy instead of schools for living.

"It is in the new school with its opportunities for child-growth that hope lies," the speaker said. She pointed out four chief impulses, including social instinct, instinct of making or construction and expression, the art instinct and the impulse toward inquiry and finding out things.

Miss Holman contrasted the differences of the two types of schools, and in conclusion declared of the new type, "it is evolving its informal real-life organization, encouraging common aims and purposes, the play of mind on mind, and is producing in the school a life of happy intimacy—creating a 'wholesome medium for the most complete living'."

Several Big Problems.

O. F. Allen, junior high school principal, was presented by Mr. Mecham, and spoke upon new conceptions for the use of textbooks. Mr. Allen explained that it is interesting to note that the past generation used the old blueback speller, which was followed by the teaching of the three R's. A variety of subjects such as health, art, music, domestic science and vocational subjects, followed the three R's Mr. Allen said.

Whether or not we use textbooks, if we know our jobs, Mr. Allen said, we still have several big problems. They are the child's inheritance of a sound physical body; his preservation of health through its knowledge; his ability to adapt himself to and enjoy social life; his inheritance of a flexible personality; his suitability for a productive occupation; his right to life, love and pursuit oif happiness, and his conception of fair play for himself and others.

Each of the problems was commented upon by Mr. Allen.

Passing of Children.

A. W. Armistead was the closing speaker on the panel discussion presented by Mr. Mecham and discussed the conceptions of passing children under the two types of education under discussion.

Mr. Armistead said under the prescribed teaching type, the quantity and quality of work and methods is laid down by the administration, and therefore a child must have a grade of 70 to pass his work in his 12 years in school. Under the creative type, the speaker declared, the methods and materials are left to the teachers. Under this system, he said, a child might have the capacity to do 60-per cent work, or less, and therefore by making that grade would be passed on to the next term's work. A child whose capacity was 80 or 90 per cent work would have to measure up to that standard to pass his work.

At the conclusion of the talks, comments were made by Mr. Mecham, Mr. McCammon and Mr. Norwood. Mr. Norwood commended the teachers for taking the professional attitude toward their work, and for studying beyond their assigned text-books and prescribed courses.

Following are the members of the 3-A foods class who prepared, and served the dinner:

DETAILS OF STUDENT CO-OPERATIVE PLAN WILL BE EXPLAINED

Details of a new "co-operative self-help student project plan" will be explained at a meeting to be held at the Corsicana public library auditorium Sturday morning, April 27, at 10 o'clock. All high school graduates of affiliated schools of Navarro county, their parents, guardians or relatives are invited to be present at the meeting.

This plan of maintenance which includes room, board, utilites, matron and laundry, has averaged from $10 to $12 per month for the 22 groups ncluding 238 boys. By starting plans for next fall early enough to insure planting, production and canning of an ample supply of vegetables it is hoped to hold food costs to a minimum. Sponsors of the plans state that more than 250 boys and 200 girls have been able to attend Texas A. & M. College and Texas College for Women (C. I. A.) at Denton, who would otherwise have been denied the opportunities of a college education. All expenses under this plan run from $150 to $275 per year for the boys, and slightly higher for the girls.

Eight boys from this county are now in a co-operative group at College Station, and several girls are attending at Denton. Local sponsors report that all of them have made good records.

MEMBER, THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

SERVICE MEASURED NOT BY GOLD BUT BY THE GOLDEN RULE

Those elements of beauty and dignity which should mark every funeral service, are very evident when we are called.

It is our thought that every detail should be anticipated, and that our efforts should still remain utterly and completely in the background.

Barton Bradley, or "Brad," as he was familiarly called by his close friends and co-workers on the Sun, was very popular with all who knew him. He had a fine sense of humor and was cheerful and good-natured even in his recent ill-health, which had forced him to practically give up work at his chosen trade, and in which he was most efficient.

His cheery disposition and ready wit made friends readily and held them closely. He was upright, honest in his dealings and fair towards his fellowmen. While he had his convictions and stood by them with vigor, he always conceded to others the right to their own convictions and respected them. Tupelo

TUPELO, April 25.—(Spl.)— After Sunday school Sunday, a number of people from here went to Chatfield, where a musical program was given by members of Chatfield, Roane and Tupelo Sundays schools. It consisted of Easter hymns and anthems after which the pastor, Rev. Justice, delivered a good sermon. In the evening the same program was enoyed by a large congregation at Tupelo, there being quite a number of visitors from Chatfield and Roane communities whom we were pleased to have.

Miss Mary Mel Lockhart gave the little folks an Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon. Some of the older young folks enjoyed one Sunday afternoon.

The school closed last week with two nights of plays that were real entertaining and well rendered by the pupils.

After al he sensational scientific corro ations of the Bible have been nsidered, there are still weightie reasons for turning to the old B ok, in confidence and expectatio . It is the one source of our knowledge concerning God. I alone reveals His will and His ways. It tells of life's beginning and of life's immortal destiny and of how to live in between It is a book of ower, imparting knowledge, wis om and moral fibre.

And best of all, it is the book hich portrays the life, and presents the words of Jesus Christ, God's sent Son, man's only Redeemer. In its pages we find Him who is life's Sustainer and Friend and Ideal and Saviour. All of these great pages climax in the personality and mission of Jesus of Nazareth, in whom is to be found life and peace and satisfaction.

To revert to the point with which this Lesson opened, let me make a practical suggestion for the stimulation and enrichment of minds that have sagged to the level of the comic strips and the pulp magazines. Why should not everybody—and especially every young person—undertake the intellectual exercise of committing to memory all of the recorded words of Jesus? The process would stiffen mentality, enrich one's knowledge, elevate one's thinking and inspire one's whole being. To know the words of Jesus would give a sense of certitude in an era of vague thinking. And it would make always accessible, night or day, the teachings that transform character. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus," wrote Sanit Paul.

SIXTY-PIECE MEXIA HIGH SCHOOL BAND WILL ENTER CONTEST

MEXIA, April 25.—(Spl.)—George Royster, director, will take his 60-piece Mexia High School band to Waco Friday and Saturday for the annual contest of the East Texas Band Teachers Association. More than 30 bands are expected to participate in the contest.

Last year the Mexia band took marching and parade honors, and hopes to capture that award again, but Mr. Royster is concentrating on the musical numbers which will be played before judges. Improved instrumentation, a larger and more experienced band than last year, give promise of competition for somebody.

Thet band paraded at the East Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Henderson Monday and will give a concert at the city auditorium in Mexia Thursday night before going to Waco. In parades and drills a drill squad of 40 girls appears with the band in uniform.

JONES HOPEFUL OF ELECTRIFICATION PROGRAM IN TEXAS

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee expressed renewed hope today that a rural electrification program might be evolved for the Texas Panhandle.

"I am greatly pleased that President Roosevelt has made this one part of his program," Jones said in reference to the President's announcement yesterday of eight types of work which may be eligible for portions of his $4,880,000,000 relief fund.

Jones has advanced rural electrification for his district as a means of utilizing millions of cubic feet of natural gas wasted daily in the Panhandle natural gas field. Texas and Secretary Ickes also are working on a plan to pipe the surplus from the Panhandle to Detroit and St. Louis.

Jones recalled that a similar electrification project had been worked out in the Muscle Shoals area and that payments for equipment and transmission lines had been so great that the original cost was retired in six instead of the planned 12 years.

He recalled that in Alcorn county, Mississippi, savings to consumers through this type of project had reached 65 per cent.

NATURE CUTS CROPS

Nature herself is a good crop - restricter. On the whole, she does a pretty dependable job. She produces too much temporarily and in spots, especially when man, her co-worker, doesn't use good sense about it. But so far, at least, in the history of mankind there has probably never been more food available than the human race could have consumed if it were passed around.

Such reflections are aroused by renewed activity of the great dust storms in the upland plains of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Those semi-arid wheat regions grow more arid. Their productivity is gone for this year, and may be gone for 10 or 100 years, through loss of the top soil that Nature takes centuries to build.

This disaster could not have been foreseen when the government began subsidizing farmers to limit crop production and restore farm prices and buying power, as a step toward restoration of a balanced economic system. Nature has now made such a policy unnecessary, for the foodstuffs affected. The government, however, now has to use for the support of the distressed farmers the money it would otherwise have used in artificial restriction this year.

It would be absurd to assume that this disaster was purposeful punishment inflicted by Mother Nature for flouting her bounty. The event, however, has strengthened the nation's natural preference for a "philosophy of abundance" as against one of scarcity, in both agriculture and industry.

LEGISLATIVE DELAY

It is doubtful whether Nero really fiddled while Rome burned. More likely he talked. That is the modern way, especially in the United States Congress.

"The greatest deliberative bodies in the world," says a Washington reporter, "appear to be deliberating more for the purpose of delay than delaying for the purpose of deliberation."

This comment applies especially to the Senate. It has talked for three months and put through only one big piece of legislation—the work relief act. That delay has held back progress in public work and private work, and in industry that is possible when public and private forces pull together.

The House has been almost as dilatory. It shoved through some bills early in the session, and has talked idly most of the time since.

Reorganization of NRA, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, the bank bill, regulation of holding companies and many other matters that the public would like to see settled are held up in one branch of Congress, or both. Why not more action?

JUST FOLKS

[Copyright, 1932, Edg[illegible] A. Guest.]

In March I cut the roses back
Which took me years to learn
I'd not in me the will to be
So ruthless and so stern
And loving all the growing canes
I left them standing tall,
Unwise was I, for June went by
With scarce a rose at all.

I loved not wisely but too well.
On many a stem I smiled.
To prunning loath I watched the growth
Of thorny shoots and wild.
I thought it tenderness to let
The seven-leafed branches stay
And didn't know when wild stalks grow
They must be cut away.

Last March I cut the roses back
And bade them start anew,
With knife severe I stripped them clear
Of every growth untrue.
Now every branch a promise bears
Of roses soon to be
And strive to tell in buds that swell
Its gratitude to me.

RACE WITHOUT WINNERS

Says Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College and a member of the American delegaton to the Geneva conference on armament reduction, "World armament is a mad and unending race for a supremacy that can never exist." It is a race with no winners, because some one is always crowding up from beneath to overthrow the one on top.

Nearly all the nations of Europe, or combinations of them, have had military supremacy at one time or another in the past. But it never lasted. No sooner had a seeming supremacy been secured by one power or group of powers than the others combined to wreck it by military conquest or diplomatic intrigue.

This historical fact ought to mean something to present-day rulers who are pushing the current armament race.

It will be a happy age for civilization when the truth is finally accepted and the futile struggle for material supremacy is abandoned. Then there might be possible a finer race, not for supremacy, but for great achievement in health, happiness, culture, the arts and sciences and all the things which should distinguish a civilization worthy of the name.

HOW TO GET A PUBLIC JOB

The Institute of Women's Professional Relations held a three-day conference in New York last week. It was told by Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, that to get a public job it is necessary to have pull, and by Secretary of Labor Perkins that to get a public job one must have merit.

It all depends.

To become a first-class postmaster, a collector of internal revenue, a sheriff, a city or country trearurer, a coroner, etc., one doesn't have to know one blessed thing about the job or its duties. The chief requisite for these positions is to be a glad-hander, a back-slapper, and to have a reputation for political influence. The boss draws the pay, and his chief deputy and the trained staff do the work. These jobs could all be abolished and the work would continue to be done—could be better done, and the taxpayers would save money.

On the other hand, there are many executive jobs which must be filled by persons of ability, or the work is not well done. In many of these jobs, women are to be found; they have not been chosen for political pull, but because they have shown themselves good executives in other positions.

We conclude that the reason there are so few women first-class postmasters, collectors of internal revenue, etc., is that so few have learned how to slap backs, call people by their nicknames, and get out the vote.

MASS DISTRIBUTION.

A lively question is brought up by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, speaking to a chamber of commerce on business recovery.

"Notwithstanding the economic theories of the moment," he says, "mass production is still the most intelligent approach to increased consumption, reduced unemployment and better times.

"It is evident that while certain measures have retarded the processes of recovery, others have accelerated it in an artificial way and cannot be continued much longer. Some imagine that wealth can be created by destroying wealth and paying for the non-production of wealth."

There are two or three points about this matter that need to be made clear.

In the first place, the great majority of Americans today really believe in what is happily called the "philosophy of abundance." They know there is great productive power, and they want to see it used fully. But people have come to realize that "mass production" is useless unless it is accompanied by "mass distribution."

Lack of mass distribution of the goods that industry can produce gets us into these terrific depressions. When they come, mass production itself halts and produces a minimum of goods.

In the second place, manufacturers themselves have always limited their productive capacity to the state of the market. But the market, or the demand, has been determined mainly by prices and wages. Industry, while sometimes lowering prices or raising wages to enlarge markets, has usually lowered production to sustain prices.

Farmers have not been able, in the past, to do this. Recent crop-limitation has been applying the same business principle to agriculture—seeking to restore farm prices to an equivalence with industrial prices by making a corresponding scarcity of products.

Probably few farmers really like this practice. And perhaps few statesmen really believe in it. Certainly the general public doesn't. What the public wants is abundance—mass production of everything needed for human convenience and comfort—passed on to the mass of consumers by a process insuring continuous absorption of all this abundance.

Such a process, under capitalism, requires low enough prices and—or high enough wages so that massed consumers can buy the mass production. There is no other way for people today to use all the things they can produce, except socialism. And Americans do not want to be forced into socialism.

District Court.

The grand jury resumed its work Tuesday morning after having been in recess since Friday afternoon.

The jury for the week was excused Monday by District Judge J. S. Callicutt until Thursday morning.

District Judge H. F. Kirby of the 67th Judicial district, Limestone and Freestone counties, was on the bench of the Thirteenth judicial district court Tuesday trying matters in which Judge Callicutt is disqualified.

Two suspended sentences were allowed by Judge Callicutt on pleas of guilty Tuesday morning in district court on motion of the criminal district attorney's department.

J. J. Minifee, 24, plead guilty and was given a three-year suspended sentence on an auto theft indictment in connection with the theft of a car belonging to J. S. Tipton, in Corsicana, Feb. 2, 1935. This was a companion case to one against Wallace Garrett who recently was acquitted by a jury Minifee was a waitress for the state in the trial of Garret. Judge Callicutt told the defendant he would not have given him the suspended sentence if he (Judge Callicutt) did not believe that he (Minifee) would go straight hereafter.

L. L. Flannigan, who has a wife and there children, relief worker, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment for the theft of two chickens, April 13, and was given a one-year suspended sentence on the recommendation of C. SECOND ATTEMPT TO RECOMMIT BANKHEAD FARM TENANT BILL

MICHIGAN SENATOR CALLS PLAN 'AN AMAZING NEW ADVENTURE' IN DEBATE

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—A second attempt to recommit the Bankhead billion dollar bond bill for rehabilitation of farm tenants was launched in the senate today, this time by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) who termed it "an amazing new adventure" on which adequate information was lacking.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) lost a similar effort by seven votes yesterday after Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) described it as an attempt to "kill the bill."

To avoid this contention Vandenberg moved the agriculture committee be instructed to hold further hearings and report the bill back this session.

Bailey said the measure was a step in the direction of "federal socialism" and added $500,000,000 already was provided in the relief act for rural rehabilitation.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said Vendenberg was attempting to kill the bill in indirection and the budget report on the bill would not change his attitude. He said the Michigan senator was going to vote for the bonus, despite the treasury's opposition.

Vandenberg arose to arrest emphatically that he had "always opposed immediate payment of the bonus and will continue to oppose either the Patman or the Vinson bills." It was his first public declaration on how he would vote on the bonus.

SECRETARY OF TREASURY OUTLINES POSSIBLE RESULTS LEGISLATION

PROMISE NEW TAXES IF BONUS PLANS NOW PENDING ARE PASSED

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau told the senate finance committee today that ony of the bonus plans now pending would require additional expenditures and therefore would call for additional taxes.

The cabinet officer, surrounded by a semi-circle of senators, warned that "a material decline in the market price of government securities" would result from any large expenditure outside the budget.

Questioned by members of the committee, Morgenthau said if the bonus passed, the treasury was prepared to recommend a federal inheritance tax that would raise from $200,000,000 to $600,000,000 a year.

Making a prepared statement, Morgenthau did not mention any of the various bonus plans by name. But on being questioned by committeemen he said his warning included the Harrison compromise proposal as well as the full cash payment bill.

This statement came as something of a shock to administration leaders as only yesterday Chairman Harrison, who offered his bill in an effort to reach a compromise satisfactory to the administration, predicted it would not require nex taxes.

Earlier, American Legion spokesmen had demanded full cash payment of the bonus before the committee, rejecting compromise proposals.

The treasury head was on the stand a few minutes.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) an advocate of full cash payment, asked him if the statement he made applied to the Harrison compromise bill as well as the Patman and Vinson measure.

"I don't care to discuss any specific bills," Morgenthau replied.

"You feel that any of the bills pending before the committee would require additional taxes?" Clark asked.

"That's my point."

Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, followed Morgenthau. He had just started to testify when the committee recessed until tomorrow.

INCENDIARIST ON RAMPAGE IN CHICAGO AS SEVEN FIRES SET

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP)—One woman was fatally burned and another seriously injured here early today when they were trapped in one of seven North Side apartment house fires which police blamed on a "firebug." All of the blazes occurred this morning within a period of two hours.

Mrs. Julius Goldberg, 73, a widow, died in a hospital a short time after she was extricated from her flaming apartment home by firemen. Her granddaughter, Miss Virginia Winnick, 18-year-old high school student, was in serious condition from burns.

All of the fires were started in the vestibules of Rogers Park apartment houses. The first alarm was souded at 3:42 a. m. and the seventh fire, the one in which the two women were burned, was discovered at 5:20 a. m.

Between those alarms, scores of frightened families were routed from their beds as firemen raced to five other blazes. Most of the fires were reported before the previous one was brought under control, keeping all crews and equipment in the area working at top speed.

All the men on duty at two district police stations were ordered out in a frantic hunt for an incendiarist.

Thomas Corbett, 27, was seized and taken to the Rogers Park police station for questioning in connection with the fires but Mrs. Alice Heffern, who saw a man fleeing from the apartment building in which she lived just before she discovered the hall carpet afire, was unable to identify him. He was held pending the arrival of investigators.

Chief Frank Braband of the 27th fire battalion estimated the damage done by the nine flames at $5,000.

COUGHLIN

Father Coughlin called the first of the state meetings as new phases in the activities of the National Union.

"In this phase," he said "it is endeavoring to change minorities into majorities as it is determined to unite the disunited, to organize the disorganized, to amalgamate the broken parts of our social structure."

As to the purpose of the National Union in the field of American political affairs Father Coughlin said in his prepared text:

"It is not our desire to form a political party but it is our intention to drive out of public life the men who have promised us redress, who have preached to us the philosophy of social justice and, then, who have broken their promises, practice the philosophy of plutocracy.

"With these men we have no sympathy. They deserve to be driven from their congressional district, or from their senatorial state, or from the broad expanse of the presidential nation with our undivided, united strength."

The 16-point program of political reforms in matters of money and wages, was not discussed by any of the speakers.

CLASH SEEN

three major proposals pending, the Patman bill to pay the adjusted service certificates in New money, the Vinson cash payment plan which leaves the method of raising the money to the government and the Harrison compromise to offer negotiable bonds in exchange for the surrender value of the certificates.

Preliminary check-ups indicated that the committee would favor the compromise, but it was expected to have harder sledding on the floor, where the cash payment sentiment runs stronger.

On the senate floor, southern senators were organised today for the most open and determined filibuster conducted in the senate for years. They flatly announced they would not permit the Costiban-Wagner anti-lynching bill to pass.

RHYTHM AND BEAUTY

DANCE FOR EXERCISE

You must have muscle exercise if you want to be good looking these days. Miss Forbes tells you what to do about this.

E. K. Forbes

There was a very charming dancer in New York not long ago, one of whose dances invariably brought deafening applause. Yet she never moved from her waist down but sat in a slight, draped costume, feet and legs crossed Buddha-fashion under her, and a magnificent gold head dress on. The dance was simply movement of the body from the waist up and bending the head and a slow, rhythmic moving of the hands and arms.

I saw her do it often, and watched her practising one day when she wore a light tweed dress. It was then that it occurred to me that her dance, imitated, would make one of the grandest of exercises, particularly for the woman who hates exercises and doesn't like throwing herself around with any sort of vigor. Let's try it.

Sit cross legged on the floor, and don't wear corsets nor anything which binds the figure. And hoose a rug on the floor, for it's hard on your ankle bones Now, just try every exercise of the body you can in that attitude. You can bend forward, stretching and easing the back, until you hit the floor with your forehead —very good for you. Hanging on to your ankles for support you can bend surprisingly far back. You can then use your wrist as a pivot and slowly circle the whole upper part of your body, side, front, other side, back, in a slow, quiet movement. Fine for your digestion and abdomen, this.

Now for a real stretch. Right arm straight up over your head (or curve it a ltitle, just for grace), bend left as far as you can go. That under arm may have to support you until you have muscle enough not to need it. Now try it on the other side —and of course, repeat all these any number of times, as many as you feel like. In time, when your weak muscles are healthier, you can imitate the dance—should you wish to.

Mrs. K. H.—If the little girl's hair is inclined to be dry, it would be best not to use anything on it in the nature of a bleach. A little lemon juice in the rinse after the shampoo is about all you should experiment with to keep her hair a light shade.

Miss W.—Stubborn spells of constipation are sometimes broken up if the person will eat a number of figs in the evening, and drink several glasses of hot water. The black mission figs are best, when it comes to food value, but any will do for this purpose. Some persons take a dozen or more of the figs, as the habit cannot be overdone as long as there is appetite for them.

A. K.—An oily skin and scalp indicate a toxic condition in the digestive system. The skin tries to keep the system cleared, then the glands in it become so relaxed they go on overworking even after the internal condition has been improved. Cold water as a last rinse, or an ice rub, will help tone the action of the skin, and also shrink the pores. The internal cause must be corrected first, however, or the skin keeps up its abnormal secreting.

H. L. V.—There should never be any scars following the electric needle treatment for destroying superfluous hair. The work should never be attempted except by those who have been properly trained for it. If you are sure of having a skilled operator for the work you need have no fears of either a return of the hairs, or of any mark left on the skin.

Tomorrow—Basic Beauty Treatments.

Prices reacted a few points after the call but quickly steadied with active months ruling about 12 to 15 points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

The comparatively few May notices and apparent strength of the near month situation, combined with the firm stock market and advance in silver, were among the factors mentioned on the advance.

Grain Prices Lower.
CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP)—Heavy selling to clear away accounts of the Rosenbaum corporation involved in bankruptcy proceedings led to lower grain prices most of the time today.

Trade estimates were that about 5,000,000 bushels of various grains were liquidated for the Rosenbaum concern, aside from selling resulting indirectly. Meanwhile, weather and crop reports were generally construed as bearish and had considerable market influence at times.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-2 to 1 1-8 under yesterday's finish, May 98-98 1-8, corn 7-8 off to 5-8 up, May 87 3-4@88, oats at 1-2 decline to 1-2 advance, and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to an equal gain.

PIERSON

bench, members of the legislature, now is session, and Governor James V. Allred, who had known the 64-year-old justice for many years, appeared dazed by the tragedy.

Funeral Saturday.

Because another son, William H. Pierson, student in the University of Chicago, could not arrive earlier, funeral services originally planned for Friday afternon, were re-set for 10 a. m. Saturday. Governor Allred and virtually all state officials will attend.

Justice of the Peace Tom E. Johnson indicated he probably would not hold the examining trial until next week unless Pierson demanded a hearing earlier. Pierson might waive examining trial altogether.

Soon after awakening, he asked for food, but, treating him as they would any other prisoner, jailers gave him a cup of coffee. They planned to take him to breakfast later.

Dr. Wooten paid him an early visit, and through the cell bars the pair could be seen sitting side by side on the cell bunk. Young Pierson appeared to be doing most of the talking.

After the conference, which lasted nearly an hour, Dr. Wooten expressed the opinion that young Pierson was suffering from dementia praecox, a form of insanity.

Imaginary Resentment.

The physician said he would suggest that officials place the boy in the state hospital here for observation for 30 or 60 days.

"He held an imaginary resentment against his parents which was based on his mistaken impression that they had discriminated against him," Dr. Wooten said. "He believed his parents favored his brother and sister.

"He brooded over and over this imaginary discrimination. He told me of things which his parents had done to him and which he considered unfair back to the time he was eleven years old.

"Then, too, he had an idea, he could become a great scientist. He failed pretty much in school and somehow got the ipmression his parents were standing in the way of attainment of his goal.

"He wanted to obtain his father's insurance money so he could resume his studies. But that wasn't the main trouble—the primary cause was this imaginnary discrimination.

"He told me he went out yesterday before noon and picked the spot at which he would kill his father and mother."

In a calm voice, he told newspapermen, in the Travis county jail, that he shot his parents to death late yesterday on a country road about 15 miles from Austin where he had lured them on the pretext of viewing a scenic drive.

First he shot his mother, he said, then his father, then he sent a bullet through the head of each "to make sure they were dead."

Next he shot himself in the left arm, concealed his father's watch and purse, his own purse, the .38 calibre, five-chambered revolver and a pasteboard box containing eight discharged cartridges in bushes several miles away, and returned to Austin with a story that two robbers had perpetrated the ghastly tragedy.

Subsequently, after nine hours grilling, he led officers to the place where he had hidden the watch, purses, pistol and box, all of which were recovered. Officers found two other discharged cartridges in the pistol and three at the scene of the killing.

In charging the youth formally with murder, Sheriff Lee Allen said: "We have found the motive." Pierson told newspapermen he had "a good reason," but officers quoted him as saying he did it for "revenge."

Deputy Sheriff Paul Blair quoted him as saying he purchased the revolver in Galveston last Saturday, driving 100 miles out of his way to obtain it.

Calm Not Broken.

Pierson made the confession after a wild night in which he twice was taken to the scene, once to direct officers to the bodies and again to recover the gun and other articles. He also was taken to the morgue to view the bodies during which his calm was not broken.

"How long had you been planning the killing?" he was asked.

"Not very long," he replied.

Q. You dont deny that you did it?

A. No.

Q. Your mind didn't suddenly go blank out there, or something of that sort?

A. I remember it all.

Q. How many shots were fired?

A. I don't know.

Q. Why did you tell your mother and father you were taking them out that road?

A. Just to show them a scenic drive.

Q. How did you get them out of the car?

A. I told them I wanted to show them an old Indian grindstone.

Q. What do you think your brother will think? (His brother is a graduate student in the University of Chicago.)

A. I suppose some one notified him. He understands my troubles.

Denies He Struck Father.

Q. Did you hit your father? (Judge Pierson had marks on his head as though he had been struck.)

Young Pierson's eyes flashed as he answered:

"I didn't do that. He must have fallen."

Q. Why did you shoot your mother first?

A. Because she was closest to me.

Young Pierson was in the University of Texas two years and a half. He once was a page in the house of representatives. He quit school last spring after being "asphyxiated" in his garage by carbon monoxide gas.

In the party that took Pierson to the country on the last trip were Deputy Sheriffs Sam Rogers, Paul Blair and Jim McCoy, and B. M. Gault, Texas ranger who helped in the extermination of the notorious Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker in Louisiana last summer.

Coup De Grace.

Deputies Rogers and Blair said young Pierson told them that after he had shot Justice and Mrs. Pierson. he felt of their bodies and then fired a bullet into the head of each "to make sure they were dead."

"What did you kill them for?" Rogers said he asked him.

"For revenge,' he replied.

"Do you mean you killed your mother for revenge?" asked Rogers.

"Yes," Pierson said.

The officers returned the youth to the county jail where he was placed in a single cell and a close watch was set over him.

Bleeding profusely, young Pierson brought the first news of the tragedy to Austin, making his way to a hospital in the Pierson automobile. After his wound was dressed, he accompanied officers to the place where the bodies were found.

County and city officers and Texas rangers, acting under orders of Governor James V. Allred, immediately started the investigation, combing the hilly country near the scene of the crime. The search for the "robbers" was dropped after Pierson's confession.

High Officials Gather.

As reports of the killings swept the city, Governor Allred, Attorney General William McCraw, justices of the higher courts and other state officials hurried to the morgue where the bodies were taken.

A night session of the legislature was virtually broken up while horror-stricken members gathered to discuss the slayings.

It was announced that funeral services would be conducted at 5 p. m. tomorrow from the University Baptist church with the Rev. W. H. McKenzie officiating.

Justice Pierson was 61 years old and had been a member of the supreme court for 14 years. He had long been prominent in church, fraternal, educational and legal circles.

Young Pierson told officers immediately after the investigation began that the justice, Mrs. Pierson and himself were driving to Pecan experiment station about 15 miles from Austin.

On Lonely Road.

They had turned off the Bull Creek scenic highway, which runs through almost mountainous country, about six miles from the city and had proceeded about four miles along another road when two men suddenly jumped in front of their automobile.

Brandishing pistols, he said, the men halted the car, mounted the running boards and ordered them to drive down a lane nearby about 100 yards. There the car again was stopped.

"One of the men handed his gun to the other," he said, "and while one kept the two guns on us the other took our money and father's watch.

"Father got real angry, and said 'I'll see that you're punished for this.' One of the men replied 'Aw, go to hell!'

"Then father grabbed the two guns and told me to light into the other man. I jumped on and started choking him. We fell to the ground. He pulled a pistol from his pocket and shot me through the arm. I heard the other man shooting."

Ran and Hid.

Pierson said he knew he "didn't have a chance," so he ran and hid in the brush for five or ten minutes. He heard more shooting, he said, but later there was silence. He crawled back to the automobile and found his parents dead.

He said he attempted to drag Justice and Mrs. Pierson into the automobile, but because of his wounded arm was unable to do so. Then he decided to drive to Austin and obtain assistance.

Officers found both bodies on their backs, the hands stretched behind them. An examination disclosed that both had been shot by a .38 calibre pistol bullets.

Justice Pierson had been shot in the left hand, the right shoulder, the right temple and the left thigh; Mrs. Pierson, in the right temple, the right side of the neck and the left thigh.

F. O. Linden, an ambulance driver, said there was evidence of a scuffle about the car, and it appeared the bodies had been dragged a short distance. Justice Pierson's hat was about 40 feet away, and Mrs. Pierson's glasses were at her feet.

Rancher Heard Shots.

Will Phillips, a rancher living about a quarter of a mile away, said he heard two shots, the scream of a woman and then two more shots, sounding as if they came "from up the road." Phillips' son apparently found the bodies first and reported to his father who notified the sheriff's department.

Young Pierson was questioned for hours by District Attorney James H. Hart, Sheriff Lee Allen and other officers at the court house and accompanied them to the morgue.

Governor Allred had gone to the morgue from the executive mansion across the street and actively participated in organizing the case, ordering Adjutant General Carl Nesbitt and the Texas Rangers to render all possible assistance. He was in the room when young Pierson viewed the bodies.

Newsmen were barred from the room, but officers reported the young man patted his father's head and said "it's too bad." They said to touched his mother's head and made similar comment. He was calm as he left the mortuary with Sheriff Allen and went to the court house to give further details of the shooting. Survivors of Justice and Mrs. Pierson included two sons, Howard Pierson of Austin and William J. Pierson, student in the University of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Harvey Thomas of Salina, Kansas.

Other Survivors.

Surviving Justice Pierson also were a step-mother, Mrs. M. S. Pierson of Abilene, Texas; five brothers, M. Pierson of Austin, S. B. Pierson of Ropesville, Texas; Lee Pierson of San Diego, Calif.; A. C. Pierson of Haskell and Cleveland Pierson of Big Spring; four sisters, Mrs. D. R. Couch of Lubbock; Mrs. G. W. Walrep of Abilene; Mrs. Oliver Cunningham of Abilene, and Miss Mary Pierson of Abilene.

Born in Gilmer, Upshur county, Texas, March 12, 1871, Justice Pierson was educated at Baylor University and the University of Texas. He was married July 9, 1901, to Miss Lena Haskell of Evansville, Illinois, and Liberty county, Texas.

After graduating from the University of Texas law school, he practiced law in Greenville, later serving in the Texas house of representatives from 1901 to 1903. From 1913 to 1921, he was judge of the Eighth Judicial District, when he was elected Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Prominent Lodge and Churchman

He was author of the legislative bill creating the College of Industrial Arts at Denton. At one time he was a member of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and a trustee of Burleson College, a Baptist school. He was a member of the Knights Templar, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and Woodmen of the World.

Governor Allred, Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the Supreme Court and other intimate friends recalled Justice Pierson's cheery disposition in the face of physical ailments.

For the past several years he had been troubled with rheumatism and once it was feared he might be forced to resign. The Justice presevered, however, and was back at his office at the first opportunity, shuffling painfully to the elevators with the aid of a secretary. In recent months, he had shown steady improvement.

Justice Pierson participated in some of the most important cases ever to face the court, including the California Oil Company cases involving millions of dollars and thousands of acres of the most valuable oil land in the world, Pecos county of West Texas.

Faithful to Constitution.

He was an advocate of the theory of "practical justice," which he wrote into the Texas law reports in vigorous language. No case was so small but that, having reached his court, it was worthy of minute scrutiny and exhaustive consideration. His fidelity to the state constitution was unbounded and his trust in it found a way into his decisions.

A kindly, venerable gentleman outside the courtroom, Justice Pierson was a martinet on the bench. He insisted that attorneys appearing before him argue facts and the law and place their oratory in written briefs.

He was most critical of "the law's delays," and often recalled his days as a trial judge when he accelerated the wheels of justice by insisting on opening court promptly at 9 a. m. and working until noon, taking a one-hour recess and then working all afternoon and often far into the night.

"These trial judges now are too easy going and lenient with the lawyers," he once remarked. "They ought to bear down harder."

One of his favorite topics of conversation was a grandchild in Chicago, whose picture he carried constantly in his wallet. He was looking forward to a vacation this summer when he would see them.

Moody Expresses Loss.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—(AP)—Dan Moody, former governor of Texas, today declared that the death of Associate Justice William A. Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court who was slain yesterday, was a great loss to the state.

"Justice Pierson was an excellent lawyer and a distinguished man and was regarded as one of the great men of our state." He said, "his untimely death is a distinct loss to the judiciary of the state."

Mr. Moody is chief of prosecution counsel in the government's case against State Representative Joseph Fisher in the income tax alleged evasion trial hre.

Relatives Planning To Attend Funeral

ABILENE, Texas, April 25.—(AP)—West Texas relatives of Judge William A. Pierson were gathering today in Abilene, home of his step-mother and three step-sisters for departure during the afternoon for Austin to attend funeral rites for the associate justice of the Texas supreme court and his wife.

In the party will be the sisters, Mrs. G. W. Waldrop, Mrs. Oliver Cunningham, Miss Mary Pierson, all of Abilene; Mrs. D. R. Couch of Haskell, a sister; S. B. Pierson of Ropesville; A. C. Pierson of Haskell and Cleveland Pierson of Big Spring, all brothers. The aged mother, Mrs. M. S. Pierson, may not be able to make the trip. A week ago she underwent an eye operation in Lubbock, returning here yesterday not fully recovered.

Relatives here were greatly shocked over deaths of Justice and Mrs. Pierson and the confession of their son, Howard. One relative said: "This is unbelievable and we are completely in the dark as to any possible motive Howard might have thought he had." It was added, however, that Howard had always seemed a little unusual, victim of a marked timidity; that "the boy would never mix and was given to long periods of silence. His parents were devoted to him, very ambitious for him, and did everything possible to overcome his timidity. When he began to fail in his subjects at the university he was withdrawn, his parents fearing he was near a nervous collapse."

Governor Is Stunned.

AUSTIN, April 25.—(AP)—Governor James V. Allred was "stunned" today at the death of his friend, Associate Justice William Pierson who, with his wife, was shot to death last night on a lonely cedar brake road near Austin by their son, Howard, 20.

"I have lost a warm friend and Texas has lost a worthy citizen," he commented. "It is too terrible to comprehend."

Governor Allred recalled Justice Pierson's last public appearance when he administered the oath of office to the chief executive January 15.

"He was pleased that he was chosen to swear me in," the governor said.

LEGISLATURE

Opponents Sought Rejection

Opponents of the bill sought rejection of the report on the contention the committee had disregarded house instructions to hold out for a provision guaranteeing repayment of the state appropriation from a share of the gross receipts from the Dallas Centennial.

"The house committee did the best it could," Futler said. "It is impossible to get everyone's ideas and whims into the bill."

The motion to reject the report was made by Representative J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene.

"It is simply a question of whether you want to appropriate $3,000,000 to buy milk and bread for Texas' starving thousands and to care for its unfortunate wards or appropriate it for a show at Dallas," Bradbury commented in a brief talk.

Provision Eliminated

The conference committee eliminated a provision authorizing extra ecompensation for the board of control in supervising building construction and inserted a provision requiring payment of the prevailing wage scale on building projects.

In lieu of the proposed house instruction for a share in the gross receipts the conference bill would give the state 75 per cent of the net profits from the Dallas celebration.

A brief flurry in the senate over prohibition brought hot words from Senator Weaver Moore of Houston, repeal chieftain, and Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, a dry leader.

Claimed Move to Defeat Repeal

The argument developed from house action in proposing submission at a special election next August 24 of a constitutional amendment to abolish the fee system of compensating county officers. It has been proposed that repeal of statewide prohibition be voted on at the special election.

Moore asserted submission of other amendments at the special election would confuse the electorate and make the ballot "look like a Chinese puzzle. Moore said the change appeared to be another movement to defeat repeal.

The senate continued its debate on a bill to halt gas wastage in the Texas Panhandle.

Dental Bill Passed

The house finally passed, with amendments, a hotly contested senate bill to tighten restrictions on the dental profession. House opponents lost a bitter fight to remove a provision prohibiting newspaper advertising other than insertion of professional cards.

A bill to establish a state board to regulate hair dressers and cosmetologists was sent to the governor when the house concurred in senate amendments.

Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, arch foe of horse race wagering, gave notice he would seek action tomorrow on a bill to outlaw race track betting.

Resolutions were introduced in the house proposing constitutional amendments to permit the legislature to establish an unemployment insurance system and to make appropriations for dependent and neglected children.

ANTI-LYNCHING

very serious issues, not issues of sentiment, and it constitutes a wholly new departure from all our preconceived responsibilities of states and federal government.'

Connally accorded the "highest motives" to the bills authors and said he was as much opposed to lynching as they, but he foresaw increasing federal encroachment on states' rights if it became law.

BONUS

Another amendment adopted by the committee would permit the president in his discretion to pay the cost of the measure out of the recently enacted $4,880,000,000 work relief fund.

This amendment by Senator Gore (D-Oklla) carried by a vote of 11 to 7.

Chairman Harrison predicted, however, that President Roosevelt would "never in the world" take advantage of it.

Would Extend Time.

The committee also adopted an amendment by Senator Harrison to permit veterans to apply for adjusted service certificates until January 2, 1937. This would be an extension of two years. The original period expired last January.

Two proposals to refund or cut down interest on previous loans by veterans against their certificates were rejected. An amendment by Senator Barkley (D-Ky) to refund all interest on loans since 1931 was beaten 14 to 5. A proposal by Senator Connolly to cut down the interest to two per cent was defeated 12 to 7.

Before reporting the bill, the committee overwhelmingly rejected an amendment by Senator Black (D-Ala) to eliminate the proposed declaration of policy against a future pension law for world war veterans. Another amendment by Senator Gore to refund the world war debts and pay the bonus out of them was rejected 11 to 7.

By its swift action today, the committee disposed of an issue which has been gathering strength in congress since before the session began. Its action, however, merely transfers the battle to the senate chamber, where it has been conceded from the first that the veterans issue finally would be settled.

Stronger in Senate.

Sentiment for the cash payment plan is known to be proportionally stronger in the senate than in the committee, but administration leaders were confident the Harrison bill would be the final choice of the senate.

Harrison immediately introduced his compromise measure in the senate.

The committee began work on the Patman bill, which passed the house by an overwhelming vote. The first motion, by Senators Clark (D-Mo) and George (D-Ga) was to substitute the Vinson bill for the Patman measure.

The vote, 14 to 4, follows:

For the Vinson bill: King, Walsh, Barkley, Gore, Clark, Byrd, Lonergan, Black, Gerry and Guffey, democrats; and Keyes, Metcalf and Hastings, republicans.

For the Patman bill: Connally, democrat; Couzens and Capper, republicans and La Follette, progressive.

Harrison Votes Present.

Chairman Harrison voted present. George, one of the authors of the motion, was not present for the vote. Senators Bailey (D-NC) and Costigan (D-Colo) were absent.

For the Harrison: Harrison, King, Walsh, Barkley, Connally, Gore, Bailey, Byrd, Lonergan, Gerry and Guffey; Democrats, and Keyes, republican.

For the Vinson bill: George, Clark and Black, Democrats; Couzens, Metcalf, Hastings, and Capper, republicans, and LaFollette, progressive.

Senator Costigan was the only member of the committee not recorded on this vote. The vote on the amendment to permit the President to use the work relief funds follows:

For: King, Walsh, Gore, Clark, Byrd, Lonergan and Gerry, democrats and Keys, Metcalf, Hastings and Capper, republicans.

Against: Harrison, Barkley, Connally, Black and Guffey, democrats; and Couzens republican, and LaFollette, progressive.

Wagner Pleads For Anti-Lynching Bill

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Pleading for a federal anti-lynching law Senator Wagner (D-NY) warned the senate today "it is but a short step from summary treatment of those suspected of crime to suppression of every shade of economic or political opinion that disagrees with a transitory majority."

Wagner is the joint author with Senator Costigan (D-Colo) of the pending anti-lynching bill against which southern senators have instituted an open filibuster.

He said federal legislation was "imperative if lynching is to be stopped," declaring that there were been 280 lynchings since 1922, when the senate refused to pass similar legislation on the ground that the state could handle the problem.

Defending the constitutionality of the proposal, which southern senators have attacked, the New Yorker said "this bill does not invade states' rights. It interferes only with mob rule."

ing Cullen, were slugged by the convicts in their flight.

The fugitives released Hillyer near Barkett after the automobile they had stolen from E. W. Woods, prison official, bogged down.

Each of the four prisoners dashed from the door of the power house, where they were at work. Adams, the gateman, opened the gate and they fled in the stolen machine.

SUGARLAND, April 25.—(AP)—Two of four convicts who escaped from the Imperial prison farm yesterday were back in custody today, and officers with the aid of bloodhounds searched a wooded section near here for the others.

Coy Adams, 18, serving six years for burglary and theft from Fannin county, and Robert Stewart, 24, serving 14 years for robbery with fire arms, were captured last night in a railway station where they had taken refuge from bloodhounds.

The other two, Ralph King, 31, serving 75 years from Dallas for robbery, and David Capes, 28, under sentences totalling 75 years from Tarrant and Hill counties for robbery, still were at large.

The four abducted L. H. Hillyer, a guard, and fled from the farm in a stream of gun fire.

Before fleeing, the convicts slugged John Cullen, superintendent of the farm canning plant, and a convict barber who was shaving Cullen.

Hillyer was released near Barket, when the automobile the prisoners stole from E. W. Woods, prison official, bogged down. The guard was uninjured except for bruises received when the convicts dragged him across the prison yard.

RELIEF WORK

allotment board which will pass finally upon proposed projects.

There was much specualtion as to the part which Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, will play in the works drive. In informed circles it was predicted he would have considerable to say about where and on what the work relief money shall be spent. Chairmanship of the allotment board was believed to be reserved for Mr. Roosevelt, however.

One official predicted that the completed organization for giving work to 3,500,000 now on relief rolls would include these men and these assignments:

Hopkins Job.

Hopkins, chief of relief to continue direct relief in communities unable to care for their destitute unemployables, and to take a hand generally in the transfer of 2,500,000 now on work relief to jobs in the new work program.

Rear Admiral C. J. Peoples, treasury procurement officer, to supervise purchase of all work relief materials and set up a central agency to buy some of them.

Secretary Ickes, the PWA administrator, to have a hand in administering more than $1,600,000,000 set aside for public works—including $450,000,000 for low cost housing.

Frank C. Walker already has taken office as director of the National Emergency Council to maintain a clearing house for information and application forms and to check proposals against employment needs.

Rexford G. Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture, has been named to direct the re-settlement of stranded farm and city families in rural-industrial communities and on farms.

economic, social, and otherwise as well as religious. It is highly desirable that he tell us of conditions."

Fish is the author of a resolution that the president "use his good offices with the Mexican government and with other nations to permit the fullest freedom of religious worship."

Representative Higgins (D-Mass.) who introduced a similar resolution, said "it would be very acceptable if Mr. Daniels could give his description of religious conditions in Mexico to the president. I personally, would like very much to talk to him."

It was said at the state department yesterday that Daniels was believed to be in New York. Officials understood he might go to his home at Raleigh, North Carolina, without stopping off at Washington.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, American ambassador to Mexico, said today he had not heard of any invitation to inform congressional or senate committees on conditions in Mexico.

He declined to comment on several expressions of interest by congressmen in his views on Mexico.

Through his son, Frank Daniels, who is in New York attending the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association the ambassador said he probably would visit Washington before returning to Mexico City'

MUCH ACTIVITY IN CONNECTION WITH CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Considerable activity was reported from various communities in the county-wide clean-up campaign which was inaugurated Monday under the sponsorship of the civic activities committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce and with the assistance of the women's organizations who sponsored the recent beautification program.

With programs well outlined in advance, several county communities were reported Tuesday to be making real headway in improving the appearance of their properities and in removing unsightly objects.

From quantities of trash handled by the sanitary department trucks this week, it was evident to city officials that the citizens of Corsicana were also participating in the program to a marked degree.

Sponsors of the movement declared that while the campaign was announced for a single week only, it was the real objective to continue the drive until all communities were in spotless condition and many eyesores that have been detracting from their appearance removed so that the full effect of the beautification program might be enjoyed.
